

Really relaxed or deeply depressed? Low arousal states and animal welfare

BOKU Vienna, 19th-20th of September 2018

Final programme

Wednesday, 19th of September 2018

8.30	Welcome and introduction
8.45	David Fraser, The University of British Columbia, Vancouver, Canada: 'Using science to understand affect'
10.00	Lorenz Gygas, Humboldt University of Berlin, Germany: 'Emotions in behavioural control - ultimate and proximate aspects'
11.00	Coffee & Tea
11.30	Workshop I: potential welfare implications associated with low arousal states
13.00	Lunch
14.30	John Eastwood, Boredom Lab, York University, Toronto, Canada: 'What is human boredom and what causes it?'
15.30	Poster presentations
16.00 – 17.30	Coffee & Poster session
18.30	Dinner at the Heuriger 'Zeiler am Hauerweg' (Rathstraße 31, 1190 Vienna)

Thursday, 20th of September 2018

9.00	Rebecca Meagher, University of Reading, United Kingdom: 'What's next for boredom research?'
10.00	Coffee & Tea
10.30	Workshop II: methodological approaches to study low arousal states
12.00 – 12.30	Concluding remarks

Venue:

University of Natural Resources and Life Sciences (BOKU)
Exner-Haus, lecture hall EH05 (2nd floor)
Peter-Jordan-Straße 82, 1190 Vienna

Universität für Bodenkultur Wien
University of Natural Resources and Life Sciences, Vienna

